

2006 LAW DAY ACTIVITIES

-Law Day Lunch: Law Day lunch on May 1 hosted by the Young Lawyers Division of the Utah State Bar. During the lunch, the Utah Law-related Education Project honors champion high school and junior high school teams from mock trials that were held earlier in the year. Court of Appeals Judge Carolyn McHugh will be the featured speaker at the luncheon.

-Judge for a Day: High school students from throughout the state have been invited by the Utah State Courts to write an essay based on the Law Day theme. Winners of the essay contest are shadowing a judge for a day in April to learn more about what a judge does, which is not necessarily what one sees on TV and in movies.

-Art and the Law Project: The Salt Lake County Bar Association organized an "Art and the Law" Project to provide a forum for Salt Lake County students to express their artistic visions about what law or justice means to them. Artwork is judged by Third District Court judges.

-Newspaper Insert: On April 30 the Deseret Morning News and The Salt Lake Tribune will run an insert with information on the separation of powers and the U.S. Constitution.

-Proclamation: Gov. Jon Huntsman will be signing a proclamation on April 27 declaring May 1 as Law Day.

-Law Day 5K Run and Walk: Law Day 5K run and walk on the campus of the University of Utah in front of the S.J. Quinney College of Law. Saturday, May 6 at 8 a.m. Entry fee is $22 in advance and $27 day of race. All proceeds go to benefit "and Justice for all."

-Exhibit: Display in the rotunda of the Scott M. Matheson Courthouse, 450 South State, on the changing face of jurors throughout history. Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.
